CHIEF DESMOND ORDERED HOME

Left Guadalajara for St. Louis Sunday.

LOST SIGHT OF KRATZ.

CASE NOW IN THE HANDS OF THE MEXICAN DETECTIVES.

Mr. Folk Declares That Desmond's Return Does Not Mean That Hope of Securing Kratz Has Been Abandoned.

The recall of Chief of Detectives William Desmond and Detective Thomas McGrath from Mexico was announced Monday morning by Circuit Attorney Folk and Chief of Police Kelly.

"There is no need of Desmond's remaining longer in Mexico," said Mr. Folk. "He was empowered to place the case in the hands of Mexican detectives, and he has done so."

"The return of the two detectives does not mean that hope of Kratz's capture and return has been abandoned."

"I suppose Chief Desmond left Guadalajara Sunday," said Chief Kelly.

"I wired him Sunday that he could come home whenever he wished, and I believe he has started by this time."

Kratz left Guadalajara last week, and his whereabouts are not known to the St. Louis detectives.

Desmond and McGrath left St. Louis April 25, and arrived in Guadalajara four days later. They watched Kratz closely until his escape last week, when he took a carriage and drove to a railroad station near Guadalajara.

BUTLER'S CASE CONTINUED

Hearing Was Postponed Until Tuesday on Account of Death of John J. Parle.

The hearing of arguments for a change of venue in the case against Edward Butler, charged with attempted robbery, was continued Monday until Tuesday morning on account of the death of Butler's son-in-law, John J. Parle.

A further continuance may result from the dangerous illness of Judge O'Neill Ryan's sister, Mrs. Mary Johnson of 478 Pine avenue.

Mrs. Johnson is not expected to recover from her present illness, and Judge Ryan has advised that the case of her death should be further continued.

M'NULTY INQUEST CLOSED

Deputy Coroner Rendered Verdict Stating That Exact Circumstances Were Not Known.

A verdict on the death of Mrs. Anna M. McNulty of 436 West Pine boulevard, who fell to the bottom of the elevator shaft from the third floor at Scroggs, Vandevor & Barney's dry goods store Friday, was rendered Monday morning by Dr. Frank Boogher, deputy coroner.

The verdict stated that Mrs. McNulty met her death by falling from and beneath the elevator car in some manner not accurately ascertained.

Mrs. Leonard M. Hall of 411 North Newstead avenue was the only witness examined Monday. She said that the elevator, going down, stopped at the third floor, and that the floor of the elevator was slightly below the level of the third floor.

Mrs. McNulty attempted to enter the elevator, she said, as the conductor, Charles Fullerton, endeavored to raise it to the level of the floor.

She said that the conductor did what he could to stop the elevator, and as she thought, to pull Mrs. McNulty inside the car. The car shot up, and she saw the woman fall out.

She said that Fullerton kept his hand on the lever and endeavored to stop the ascent of the car, but that the speed of the car was not diminished.

Fullerton testified Saturday that he pushed Mrs. McNulty out of the car to keep her from being crushed, and in the hope that she would fall on the floor. He said that the car became unmanageable.

25 CLERKS FOR POST OFFICE

One Hundred Distributing Clerks Have Been Promoted, Making a Total of 550 Promotions in St. Louis.

Postmaster Baumhoff announced Monday that the salaries and allowances division at Washington, D. C., had authorized the employment of 25 extra distributing clerks.

One hundred distributing clerks have been promoted, making a total of 550 promotions at the St. Louis postoffice, to take effect July 1.

These additional clerks will enable Mr. Baumhoff to vastly improve the St. Louis postal service.

"It will also enable us," said the postmaster, to hold strictly to an eight-hour work day, which I have been striving to secure for some time past.

"This week we will install two postmarking stamping machines with a capacity of 150 letters per minute."

"Among other improvements contemplated is the installation of 12 additional postal stations. This will give St. Louis a total of 110 postal stations."

The total allowances from this department for the St. Louis postoffice, thus far this year will total $1,000,000.

Mr. Baumhoff held a conference Sunday with George W. Beavers, general superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances, and other improvements are expected to be forthcoming in a few days.

FREAKS OF A TORNADO.

Mare and Colt Carried Half a Mile Without Being Injured.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., May 25.—A cyclone traveling northwest to southwest, 50 feet in width, played odd pranks 11 miles south of Sedalia, Sedalia, Mo., Sunday.

John Klein's house was destroyed. Chickens on the Klein farm were stripped of every feather and many were killed and spoken were blown from the wheels of a heavy farm wagon. The Klein barn, a few rods from the house, was not damaged.

A mare and colt on the Klein farm were carried by a three-barred cyclone. The mare and colt were blown a half mile from the John C. Klein farm.

FENDER SAVED BABY MARTIN'S LIFE FROM BEING CRUSHED OUT

Child Was Struck by an Easton Avenue Car, but Beyond a Bump on Her Curly Head She Was Unhurt.

Agnes Martin, the winsome 3-year-old daughter of John Martin of 1535 North Pendleton avenue, was saved from the wheels of an Easton avenue car Saturday by a fender which worked and a motorman who saw her danger and acted instantly.

The child was struck by the car, the fender slipped under her body and neatly carried her to the side of the track. A bump on her curly head, her only injury, is evidence of her danger. The accident occurred at Easton and Pendleton avenues.

Little Agnes was trying to keep up with her older sister, Gertrude, who, with her chum, Marie Hickey, was on the way to the butcher shop, when she walked on the Easton avenue tracks straight in the way of a westbound car.

The motorman, J. Lozaway, saw the baby when his car was within ten feet of her. It was too late to stop. He hit the fender down and waited for the inevitable.

When next he looked little Agnes was in the gutter beside the track unharmed and rubbing her wondering eyes, half minded to cry.

The car stopped and all the passengers gathered around the baby, who was being carried by the fender. But just at that junction her father, John Martin, came up and carried little Miss Agnes to her home, half a block away.

CAFÉ TRUST WITH A CAPITAL OF HALF A MILLION

Consolidation of Four St. Louis Restaurants.

NEW YORK CAPITALISTS IN IT

McTAGUE'S, FAUST'S, CESAR'S AND NAGEL'S IN THE COMBINATION.

Total Receipts of the Restaurants Now Run From $15,000 to $30,000 Daily—The Proposed Plans.

RESTAURANT SYNDICATE

Between 6000 and 8000 persons patronize daily McTague's, Faust's, Cesar's and Nagel's restaurants, which are to be consolidated.

The total receipts per day are estimated at from $15,000 to $30,000.

About 400 persons are employed.

The capital stock of the new company will be $500,000.

One scale of prices will be fixed, but there will be no material advance.

Mr. Nagel has been offered the presidency of the new concern, which is backed by a New York syndicate.

Tony Faust, Jr., will be the secretary and treasurer.

The vice-presidency and general management will be entrusted to James H. McTague, president of the McTague Catering Co.

Four of St. Louis' leading restaurants, McTague's, Faust's, Nagel's and Cesar's, will be merged into one management, options having been secured by a New York syndicate.

While not positively decided it is said the capital stock of the company will be fixed at $500,000.

It is also considered probable that $100,000 of common stock will be sold.

The report that the high-class cafes of St. Louis had taken kindling to the trust idea has been rumored for several days, but it was not until Monday that the plan was made public.

Frank Nagel, proprietor of Nagel's cafe, made this statement to the Post-Dispatch:

"I have been thinking of this for some time, and I have decided to sell out. As yet I am unprepared to disclose the identity of the purchasers."

Plans Are Elaborate

"The Post-Dispatch may say, however, that they are New York parties, have plenty of money and will conduct the consolidated restaurants on plans of elaborate management."

"While the present owners are offered the privilege of conducting each place under the general management of the syndicate, I do not think this will be done—at least not so far as I am concerned."

"My information is that Tony Faust, Jr., will have much to do with the new management, and I think he will be a good thing for St. Louis. It will insure a good firm of good service and will afford a splendid opportunity for the introduction of the most advanced appliances of the business."

"Undoubtedly St. Louis will henceforth have the finest restaurant service in the city, and the fact that the syndicate features of the management would result in an economical conduct of a profitable business."

"It is very likely a large amount of money will be saved by the consolidation."

"In some cases the present owners have been offered stock besides cash for their place."

"With the consolidation effected, I intend to retire from the business."

"I have no objection to the subject."

Mr. McTague said:

"No, I will not; I must refuse to talk at all about the matter."

At Faust's it was stated that Tony Faust, Jr., was also absent.

No other city of the United States has heretofore attempted to organize a trust of this kind.

Mr. Nagel smiled when asked if the combination had been suggested by the Morgan, the present wizard of Wall street.

Public May Get Stock

"I don't think Pierpont," he replied, "would foot with a little half million or million dollar concern."

Many ventures similar to the one proposed have been successful throughout Europe, notably in England, Austria and Germany.

The plan of distributing the stock among the general public which may be done by the syndicate is of English origin and is a feature calculated to add to the popularity of the company.

It is said that with the consolidation of the four mentioned, other cafes will be started by the combine.

Arrangements are now being made to secure a room for one in the Commercial Building.

Another, it is believed, will be situated near Seventh and Olive streets.

Genuine worry was depicted on the faces of the waiters Monday when the report of the consolidation was spread.

"If it's like other trusts," said one, "I guess our jobs are liable to be in danger or else salaries will be cut."

Another slammed a plate on the floor when the news was whispered and a third was inclined to bite a Haviland saucer when the report was spread.

According to Mr. Nagel, the waiters need not worry.

"There will be raised, if anything," remarked that gentleman.

LEAPED OUT OF CAR WINDOW

Girl Was Rendered Unconscious, but Went Pluckily to Her Work When She Was Revived.

Miss Eva Meyers of 235 Olive street, employed as a stenographer at 221 Chestnut street, narrowly escaped serious injury by leaping from the window of an Olive street car at Seventeenth and Olive streets at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The girl was sitting in the front of the car and at the street crossing the fuse on the front motor blew out. It frightened Miss Meyers so that she sprang out of the open window. Her head struck the paved street and she was rendered unconscious.

She was picked up and carried into the office of the Addison Phonograph Co., 170 Olive street, where she was attended by Dr. J. H. Meyer.

She is now recovering and is expected to be up in a few days.

It is believed that the accident was caused by a loose wire on the motor.

Other witnesses were Attorney General Crow, Excise Commissioner Seibert and Father Coffey.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER. Published by
THE PULITZER PUBLISHING CO., 210-12 N. Broadway

ON FILE

In the City Register's Office,
CITY HALL.

AFFIDAVIT OF CIRCULATION

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH.

State of Missouri, City of St. Louis, ss.—
Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public in and for the City of St. Louis, Mo., W. C. Steigler, Business Manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who deposes and says that the regular editions of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch for the last three months (February, March and April, 1902), after deducting all copies returned by newsboys and copies left over, printed in printing and unaccounted for, averaged, Daily and Sunday, 114,888 Sunday only, 135,000. In the city of St. Louis sales averaged 56,332.
W. C. STEIGLER, Business Manager,
Sworn to and subscribed before me this 23d day of May, 1902.
HARRY M. DUTHING,
Notary Public, City of St. Louis, Mo.
(Seal) My term expires Aug. 14, 1905.

The biggest thing in St. Louis just now is the growth of St. Louis.

The volcano near Austin, Tex., is dead. It should be turned into an all gusher.

A bank with $7,000,000 capital is quite in keeping with the increased commerce of St. Louis.

If Cuba is to blossom into a beautiful, peaceful and prosperous republic, Gen. Wood might be good presidential timber.

Philippine Buencamino's endorsement of Jake Smith is a little rough on President Roosevelt, who declared that savage methods in our army must cease.

The St. Louis educational exhibits at Charleston won three gold medals. They will certainly be winners again at the World's Fair if we shall choose to do what we can for them.

INCREASED TERMINAL FACILITIES.

The news in the Sunday Post-Dispatch that the terminal facilities of St. Louis will be greatly increased is good news for the business interests of St. Louis. Manager McHenry of the St. Louis Terminal Co. told the Post-Dispatch that his company intended to expend $10,000,000 in new tracks and additional freight and passenger facilities. This extension has been made necessary by the enormous increase of St. Louis business and the expected advent of the Rock Island and three other railroads. The inadequacy of St. Louis terminals has been a potent and burdensome fact for several years. Business has been greatly hampered by the lack of facilities. It would be better for St. Louis if there were more independent terminals with competition for business, and what is needed more than anything else is additional bridge facilities. We must have more bridges.

But an extension of the present system of terminals will afford some relief. The business men of St. Louis should combine to protect their interests against monopoly oppression and to secure free and abundant railway facilities for the city's rapidly growing trade.

The Witherup lynching at Paris, Mo., reflects great discredit upon the State of Missouri. It is to be hoped that the law officers of the county will redeem the good name of the State by prosecuting the lawbreakers. The law must prevail in Missouri.

WIFE'S MOTHER.

Dear old mother-in-law is in trouble again. This time she appears in East St. Louis. A worthy citizen of that rich and populous suburb has sued that legal relative for $5000 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections. He and his wife could agree perfectly and get along nicely and be happy, he avers, were it not for the presence of her mother, who seems to be a kind of Mont Pègre, in her way, belching out fire and raising a great smoke, thereby causing contention in his household. If he can only succeed in putting a quietus on her eruptions, he believes, he will have solved the most perplexing of his matrimonial problems.

But suppose that wife's mother is not possessed of $5000, and that she should insist upon the right which she has in common with every other woman of having the last word—then what? Suppose that she should refuse to stop talking at all, even in the face of the court's commands—then what?

The East St. Louis citizen has chosen a bad method of getting rid of his troubles. No mother-in-law can be ruled by coercion. She demands and must have kind treatment. Being wise in her day and generation and somewhat "set" in her ways, she must be handled diplomatically; not with a blunderbuss. There is no finer woman in the world than a good mother-in-law, unless it is the daughter she has kind enough to rear for the benefit of some selfish man. The East St. Louis man should try another tack.

Four new lines of railroad coming into St. Louis will be vastly helpful in the World's Fair year, when everybody will be coming this way.

GET ALL NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

The action of the Business Men's League in taking up the matter of securing the national conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties in 1904—the World's Fair year—is to be commended. President Walbridge has opened communication with the chairmen of the national committees and has asked the co-operation of the Missouri committees.

This action is in accordance with the suggestion made by the Post-Dispatch the day the postponement of the World's Fair was decided upon. On Friday, May 2, the Post-Dispatch said:

The change of date to 1904 throws the World's Fair into election year. One advantage may be gained from this combination—St. Louis will be the convention city for that year. Immediate steps should be taken to secure the national political conventions of that year. The fact that St. Louis will be the World's Fair city and that delegates to the national convention can combine their convention trip with a visit to the World's Fair will be a strong argument in favor of St. Louis. On the other hand, the convention will help the World's Fair. The moment Congress fixes 1904 as the date, the work of securing the national conventions should begin.

The Business Men's League should receive the hearty support of the World's Fair management and of all citizens. St. Louis must be the convention city in 1904. Get them all.

Exorbitant prices for coal are a hindrance to building, and especially to the erection of such buildings as are heated for tenants by the owner. The cost of heating has to be added to the rent.

TRUSTWORTHY GUARANTEES.

President Loubet, at the review held in his honor at St. Petersburg, said that the Dual Alliance was merely defensive. "This insinuating force menaces no one," he exclaimed.

Perhaps not, but the national spirit asserts itself in spite of imperial promises and presidential assurances. Whether or not Russia means war is a question which depends entirely upon the attitude of other powers. If John Bull and his German cousins continue quietly at home while the Russian bear makes his home in Manchuria and occupies the desirable ports of eastern Asia, Britain will not growl, much less bite and hug. All the brute wants is to be let alone; grant him this privilege and he will menace no one. But if he is opposed, he will show his claws. This is the law—the law of growth. Until the national spirit finds its true proportions in a fitting domain, it will be restless and aggressive. Czar, Emperors, Kings and Presidents cannot control this spirit. They can talk of peace and negotiate treaties and leagues of friendship, but the real power everywhere is in the inarticulate mass called the people.

Here is the guarantee of peace if there is any. Among the people, in these times, there is little respect for the subtitle of word and drum. Besides, all of the spectacular has vanished from war, which has become a very unspurious show. And the people will not go, pell-mell, into war at the bidding of the ambitious rulers who do not rule.

No peace must come from the steady growth of sanity, reinforced by commercial power. The national spirit can assert itself without the use of gunpowder.

Commerce—this is the way of peace. The modern man likes to dicker and deal, to bargain and sell, and he doesn't like to kill his brother. He prefers to make something out of him. And when all see that trade is mutually profitable, they will naturally prefer it to war, which is mutually destructive.

The Russian people are backward, but even they are alive to the advantages of 5 per cent. And Tolstol has been with them. They will see a way to national self-assertion along the paths of peace. The captain of industry will make it clear to them. His guarantees are trustworthy.

The photographs of Pelee, St. Pierre and surrounding country published in the Post-Dispatch were the first authentic views of the center of volcanic activity presented to St. Louis readers. They were graphic representations of what is now the most interesting spot on earth, and are essential to a clear understanding of the dispatches from that unhappy region. Without them the clearest descriptions must appear abstract and unsatisfactory.

THE PLATT AMENDMENT.

A correspondent asks the Post-Dispatch to define and explain the so-called Platt amendment of the stipulation in the treaty of peace with Spain that the United States government should protect life and property on the island of Cuba. It was an amendment incorporated in the army appropriation bill which became a law March 2, 1901.

The amendment provided: That the President leave the government and control of the island to the Cubans as soon as they should have established a government of their own with a constitution defining the relations with the United States.

These relations were to be as follows: First—The government of Cuba shall never enter into any treaty or compact with any foreign power which will impair or tend to impair the independence of Cuba, nor authorize or permit any foreign power to obtain any lodgment in or control over any portion of the island.

Second—The government of Cuba shall not contract debt which cannot be met, interest and principal, by the ordinary revenues after paying current expenses.

Third—The government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence and for the maintenance of a government equal to the protection of life, liberty and property.

Fourth—That the acts of the United States during the military occupancy shall be ratified and validated.

Fifth—Cuba shall maintain and extend the sanitary work begun by the United States.

Sixth—The Isle of Pines is excepted from the constitutional boundaries of Cuba; its status shall be settled by treaty.

Seventh—Cuba shall sell or lease to the United States lands needed for coaling and naval stations.

These requirements were accepted by the Cuban constitutional convention May 28, 1901, by a vote of 15 to 14, and were made a part of the constitution of the new government.

That is a troublesome kid in Iowa who has 20,000 signatures of schoolchildren asking President Roosevelt to tell the English not to kill the Boer children. He will embarrass Mr. Roosevelt.

Nothing could be more appropriate than the nomination of the next President of the United States in St. Louis while the greatest international exposition ever known is in progress.

A beef tariff of 27 1/2 cents places the government in the attitude of supporting the Beef Trust. Its prosecution of the combine is highly inconsistent. It is strangling its own baby.

From what the Rev. T. J. Morgan says of Uncle Mark Hanna's religious work in the last presidential campaign it may be inferred that Mr. Morgan will lean to the Teddy interest.

With two histories of the Senate by Missouri statesmen the libraries of the United States would be greatly enriched. Pull off your coat, Mr. Vest, and go to work.

The Kansas City chief of police was very kind in suppressing the news of a diamond robbery committed by the son of a banker, but it seems to have come out, after all.

Ohio ought to have a better World's Fair exhibit than $75,000 will give her. Probably this amount will be increased. It is quite out of proportion to Ohio's importance.

The soul of good in the foolish hazing custom of colleges may be visible to Dr. Holland, but there are many people who are not so observing.

With the nose of Dr. Bergerac proved to have been an American product, we have still another demonstration of American supremacy.

"Dr. Mark Twain" will sound a little humorous, but it seems that Missouri University is determined to make an L.L.D. of Mr. Clemens.

A thousand statues to Frederick the Great would do less harm to American ideals than one inglorious war in the Philippines has done.

No faithful historian will fail to note the astonishing Cuban-Philippine contrast when he writes the annals of the great republic.

The Stephen Decatur idea of "our country, right or wrong," has been considerably boosted by the Philippine expansion.

St. Louis is soon to be in touch with 12,000 miles of trade territory. This is expansion of the right sort.

Facts About Gen. Miles.
From the Washington Post.
Miles illustrates the opportunities of American manhood and the rewards of a national spirit. He entered the army in 1861 from civil life. No mutual admiration society stood behind him. He never, in his most riotous adolescence, and with a gang of rowdies at his heels, caused a disturbance or a person to be hurt. He was a little boy. He fought his way up through the smoke and terror of the greatest war in history, without a class to laud and celebrate him, and today he commands the army of the United States! That is something. A large majority of the people in this country think that the man who has won his way up has not acquired in a minute's time. Such honors as he wears are not the spoils of a maudlin hysteria. He fought the fiercest soldiers in the world during the civil war and won advancement after he fought the Indians and won intelligent applause. He has succeeded in making a record and open to the public, he has done more to discredit the party than twice the number could accomplish. He is very bold and shows their after disregard for the party welfare, and demonstrates the necessity for their suppression.

A Paramount Issue in Missouri.
From the Glasgow Missourian.
There is no successful fact that the paramount issue in Missouri this year is the fight on the lobby. A few men, posing as Democrats, but in reality the servile tools of corporate interests, have succeeded in smothering the Democratic party to such an extent that it becomes imperatively necessary to repudiate these men. Such men as Morton, Farley and Orchard, whose official acts are on record and open to the public, have done more to discredit the party than twice the number could accomplish. They have done more to discredit the party than twice the number could accomplish. They have done more to discredit the party than twice the number could accomplish.

POET AND PHILOSOPHER

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM.

I. In the Himalayan mountains
I would like to dwell a while,
Where there are (if fancy fountains
Scattering spray for half a mile.

II. When the sultry winds were blowing
Through the Mississippi's vale,
I would sit and watch it snowing—
Yes, or see it sleet and hail!

III. There a glacier I'd straddle,
And would ride it down the slope,
With no care my brain to addle
As I gave my fancy rope.

IV. I would climb the very summit
Of the loftiest peak in sight,
Throwing snowballs, like a plummet,
Down into the valleys bright.

V. I would breathe the frozen ether—
Priceless, yet without a price—
And sustain on (scorning neither)
Sandwiches of snow and ice.

VI. In the snowdrifts I would burrow
Till my head was lost to view,
Metting for me the cold, frosty
Deep and frigid. Wouldn't you?

VII. Human ties at last I'd sever,
Ending thus the maddening quest—
End it all—let's live forever
On the tall Mount Ever-rest.

Would You?
If human ties were to earth,
When wicked they have been,
Atoning, by a lower birth,
For error, shame and sin,
Though some with me may not agree
Or cherish such regard,
I wouldn't mind it, 'twould I be A mammoth St. Bernard.

them up like a folding bed.

A FEAT OF BRIDGE-BUILDING.

Frank W. Skinner in the June Century.

The Dutch tracks of the Pennsylvania
Railroad cross the Schuylkill river at Girard avenue, Philadelphia, on a stone-arch
bridge with a single steel truss span over the middle channel. This was recently replaced in 15' main span, with the least
delay or interruption to the almost continuous traffic of long, heavy freight trains
and high-speed expresses which cross the bridge every hour in the 24, without
obstructing the river, the temporary steel
span was built alongside the old one and at
a lower level, so that its top was a little
below the bottom of the old structure.

On this was erected, in the usual way,
the complete new span with the tracks laid on
it. Powerful hoisting engines were set on platforms at the end of the old span on the opposite sides of the bridge and operated
four sets of tackles, by which, after the tracks had been cut, both spans, weighing
together nearly 2,000,000 pounds, were set
sideways on double tiers of long horizontal
rollers, with over three hundred solid steel
rollers between them. In this way the old span was displaced by the new one, which
followed it like a very substantial shadow,
until permanently situated in exactly the same position. Two and a half minutes
after the last train crossed the old span,
the connections were broken, the engines
were started, and in two and a half minutes the new span had passed over the old
span, and a solid and graceful roadway was
arranged at a low level, on which the temporary span was pulled to a position directly below the old span, and served as a
support while the latter was taken to pieces. The great weight of the spans, the difficulties from incessant traffic and the speed and accuracy with which the spans
were moved, make this one of the most remarkable feats.

A DIPLOMA IS A POOR LEVER TO MOVE THE WORLD.

Perhaps the greatest handicap of a young
college graduate, on entering the world of
action, is his unbounded faith in the practical value of his academic education, even though seconded by no great effort on his part. After spending four years in the study of theoretical problems, grappling with Greek
and Latin translations, and stuffing his head
with facts concerning science, and with
many other unrelated branches of knowledge, he feels himself vastly superior to
the shrewd, practical man of business
who has not the advantage of a college
training.

Instead of turning up his sleeves and going to work at the bottom of the ladder, he has chosen field—if he has chosen one, in taking advantage of the first opportunity that
offers, if he has not this over-confident
young man, who thinks that the world
is his oyster, and today he commands the army of the United States! That is something.
A large majority of the people in this country think that the man who has won his
way up has not acquired in a minute's time.
Such honors as he wears are not the spoils
of a maudlin hysteria. He fought the fier-cest soldiers in the world during the civil war
and won advancement after he fought the Indians and won intelligent applause. He has succeeded in making a record and open to the public, he has done more to discredit the
party than twice the number could accomplish. He is very bold and shows their after disregard for the party welfare, and demonstrates the necessity for their suppression.

As we came uptown Wednesday morning
we noticed quite a commotion among the
people; some were in their doors, others
at the windows and still others peeping
from behind trees and fences. On looking round we discovered T. J. Farrell, struggling furiously down the street with paint brush
in one hand and a bucket of paint in the other; but whether he was going to work or
trying to fool his wife we have not learned
at this writing.—Madison Times.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

It is so easy to make friends that no-
body has any that are genuine.
A man knows he loves by what joys he feels; a woman by what she suffers.

It is the six-foot man with the square
jaw that is led around by a little bunch

An old wife and a young husband have

they never take it.

you won't reason with her about it.

THE POISON OF THE LILY.

A German botanist has discovered that
the pretty flower known as the lily of the valley contains a poison of the most deadly kind. Not only the flower itself, but also the stem as well contains an appreciable
quantity of prussic acid. While injecting
a concoction of lily of the valley into the
ear of a guinea pig, he noticed the animal
succumbed immediately, with all the symptoms of poisoning by hydrocyanic acid.

say the Pittsburg Dispatch. Chemical
analysis of the little plant has disclosed,
however, the presence of this poisonous
constituent, to which—strange to say—
scientists attribute precisely the penetrating perfume of the lily of the valley. The attention of the German botanist has been drawn by the fact that one of his gardeners
has felt himself seized with dizziness and
vomiting after having inadvertently raised
a bunch of lilies of the valley to his mouth,
the lips of which were cracked.

SAYINGS AND DOINGS
OF STATESMEN
AND OTHERS

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Justice Harlan
is a golfie. He says it is the greatest game in the world. He plays several times a week. He is more than six feet tall, weighs 80
pounds and has a
deep chest and
shoulders a yard
across. When he hits
a ball squarely it
goes soaring through
the air for yards and
yards.

There is one hole
on the Chevy Chase
links called "Harlan hole." In some wonderful manner the
justice once made the
hole in one stroke.
He drove the ball off
the tee and it rolled
into the hole. The
caddy spent half an
hour looking for the ball in the high grass
while the justice fumed and fretted. Then
somebody shouted:
"Why, here's your ball in the hole!"
The justice was so proud that he would play no more that day. No one has duplicated the feat.

Senator Burnham of New Hampshire,
who succeeded Senator Chandler, is as
quiet and unobtrusive a citizen as sits in the upper House of Congress. He is a member of the committee of three that is investigating the Sugar Trust holdings in Cuba.

At the hearing Friday, when Henry O.
Havemeyer, of the American Sugar Refining Company, was on the stand Senator
Burnham sat at the table and made notes.
He asked no questions. Toward the end of the hearing he took a pad and began to write. When the hearing adjourned he was still writing. Havemeyer had watched the Senator narrowly, and walked around the
table to where he was writing.

"Here you," said he, shaking the Senator roughly by the shoulder, "what are you doing? Writing this up for the senatorial press? I suppose?"
Senator Burnham sat up in his chair,
dumb with astonishment. He stammered
and spluttered, but could say nothing.

"And I want to tell you," said Havemeyer, walking away, "that you'd better
let me see what you write before you
send it."

Before the Senator regained his voice
the sugar magnate was out in the corridor. Up to a late hour Friday night he had not submitted his remarks to the Havemeyer.—Washington telegram to

SOMETHING DOING IN THE COUNTRY.

Not every man can have a hard
"bears on him" and "roll
like this" instance, in regard to active Mr. Farrell.

Consigned himself to dust,

As hoglike as the trust.

Wipe, skin and chop the rhubarb to a pulp. Weigh and allow one quart of water
and one pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Mix all together until sugar is resolved, then pour into a large earthen crook or jar. Throw a piece of cheesecloth over the top to keep out dust. Let it
stand and ferment well, stirring it up once or twice each day. When the fermentation
ceases skim and strain and pour into a clean cask and let stand for 24 hours. Then
close the bung-hole and let stand undisturbed
for four months. Then draw off
carefully from the sediment into a bottle,
cork tightly and put away in a cool, dark
place on their sides.

Putting Away Silks.
Silk should never be folded away for any length of time in white paper, since the
chlorine of lime used in bleaching the paper produces a chemical change in the silk and impairs the color. A way to prevent silk or woolen turning yellow is to
place pieces of brown paper in the fabric
when putting them away.

thing until we lose it," remarked the mon-

Ten Years Old.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A certain morning paper defends anything
the soldiers in the Philippines do. It denies Gen. Smith did right in condemning
to death all males over 10 years of age
in certain provinces of the island. Will not that paper admit that the young males
—those just 10 or 12, are not as far advanced in civilization as American boys of like ages? Yet our law makers and those who enforce the laws seldom hold a youth
accountable for a crime if committed when he is 10, 12 or 14 years of age. Why the
"houses of correction" to place therein
"youthful offenders, who may not, in the eyes of God and man, be punished as would be a person of mature years. Yet we are to hold ignorant Philippine youths to the fullest possible accountability for crimes
they commit, even to punishment by death.
Do we hear of boys of 10 drinking and flood here? Right in St. Louis, a short time ago, was an inexcusable killing by a
youth, but was he sentenced to death?
We expect more of the Philippine youths
than of American and exact more of them,
who contends that youths of 10 should be
shot in the islands, should also, be considered, contend that boys of 10 like age
should be hung in this country. J. M. R.

CHAFFEE HOLDS WALLER GUILTY

Acquittal by Court Martial
Is Disapproved.

"MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE"

MAJOR MENTALLY IRRESPONSIBLE,
THEREFORE NOT MURDERER.

Lieut. Day Is Censured for Not Dis-
obeying His Superior Officer and Thus Preventing Disgrace
to the Army.

MANILA, May 25.—The court martial, acquitting Maj. Waller and Lieut. Day of the charge of killing natives of Samar without legal process, has been disapproved by
Gen. Chaffee, who says it was "a miscarriage of justice."

The findings are not only not supported
by the evidence, the commanding general
declares, but also opposed by it.

A minute review of the record leads him
to decide that justice to the military service and common fairness to the helpless
natives whom Maj. Waller sent to their death, his acts partaking more of unwar-
rantable retaliation than justifiable warfare,
makes the case one that should not become
an approved precedent for young officers.

That portion of the verdict declaring Waller not guilty of murder is approved on the ground that the officer was not mentally responsible.

Referring to the case of Maj. Waller, the
reviewing authority says:
"The marines in Samar underwent great
suffering before their rescue and their officers from their sick beds voiced the revengeful anger of the men, who telephoned
to Maj. Waller, advising that the stevedores
be killed."

"Maj. Waller received this message while
he was sick, prostrate from a fever, suffering acute pain of body and mind, and his exertions in behalf of his men and
mental anguish concerning their fate which had long been in doubt. Maj. Waller was at the time in telephonic communication with Gen. Smith, who commanded the American forces in Samar, but he deliberately chose not to consult Gen. Smith
regarding his contemplated action, but
rather than forgo the execution of his un-
restrained will, he assumed the power to confer upon commanding officers only
in time of war."

"Giving heed to the mental attitude of Waller, as much as the findings of the court as to the effect that Maj. Waller
is not guilty of the murder are approved.
But the reviewing authority is at a loss
to understand why the court did not find
against Maj. Waller in the minor offense.
With the exception noted, the acquittal as
it appears in the record of the proceedings
is disapproved."

Referring to the case of Lieut. Day, the
reviewing authority says:
"The accused knew that for three weeks
Maj. Waller had undergone a test of his mental and physical endurance as few
men are called upon to suffer."
"While fully conceding the grave responsibility assumed by a subordinate officer in wilfully disobeying an order of his
commanding officer, still the weighty responsibility assumed by Lieut. Day was acquitted. Maj. Waller's order that Lieut. Day should be executed was protected to positive disobedience. An officer must be conscientiously regardless of the unquestioned legality of his agency in taking the lives of his fellow-men."

"Above and beyond all personal considerations officers must guard the name and honor of the country. Had Lieut. Day been acquitted by such considerations he would probably have prevented one of the most regrettable incidents in the annals of the military service of the United States."

Miss Mary Manning of Perryville, Mo.,
and Miss Lizzie Schrieber were received
into the order of Ursuline nuns at a special service held Sunday. In the ceremony which made them "brides of the church" ten little

Miss Manning became Sister M. Zita and Miss Schrieber received the name of M.
Dorothea. Rev. Father Schrieber, the uncle
of one of the young women, preached the
sermon of the occasion, and Mr. H.
Muehlstein, vice-president of the executive, Rev. Father Farretti of Baltimore, who is Mr. Muehlstein's guest, assisted in the ceremony.

The young women received the white veil
and the wreath of pink roses from the vic-
ar. At the end of two years the black veil
will be given them, sealing them for life to
the order.

IMMIGRANTS SWINDLED.

Land Cruisers Locate Them on Washington Forest Reserve.

TACOMA, Wash., May 25.—Several people
have been swindled out of money recently
by alleged land locators, who have agreed
to show them choice quarter sections that
can be taken up in township 18, range 7,
east of the Willamette meridian.

This land is not open to entry, and has not been since the forest reserve bill became a law on March 1, 1898. The township
referred to is in the north-west corner of the forest reserve.

Superintendent D. R. Sheller of the reserve has received information from the land office that the township would be open to entry on June 1. But this is the headline that it will be open to people who settled
there prior to its being included in the reserve. No new settlers can locate there or make filings upon the land.

Some unscrupulous land cruisers, taking advantage of the information that the township will be thrown "open" on June 1, are representing that any person can select a timber claim or homestead there and are
charging from $10 to $150 for each person
they "locate." In no instance can the newcomer have his filings accepted at the Olympia land office.

is a moonshine love story.

In the fastnesses of the mountain near
here eight years ago was the illicit still
of a little party of moonshiners, skillful
in evading the revenue officers.

At the head of this lawless band was Redmond. In this city dwelt the Parris family, the only daughter, Lou, then aged 16, was the belle of the county. Redmond was a handsome fellow of 22. Concealing
his occupation from her, he sought to win
her heart, but before he could bind her at the altar Mr. Parris discovered his connection with the moonshiners still, and drove him
away.

This opposition only fanned the flame of
love.

Then appeared, in the person of William Johnson, another suitor for the hand of the girl, and he had the backing of Parris.
Lou Parris looked upon this suitor
as a shield for her meetings with Redmond,
and so appeared to welcome the new wooer's attentions. The girl deceived her father, but not Johnson. He discovered
that his sweetheart frequently met Redmond.

He did not tax the girl with her perfidy.
Neither did he proclaim his discovery. He simply waited to "get even." He did what to moonshiners is the meanest thing of which the human heart is capable. He led the "revenue" to the illicit still. The Parris family was destroyed. The government officers destroyed the plan. Redmond was taken to jail in Tyron City.

Moonshiners Went

After Their Leader.

That same night 20 men came down the mountain, battered in the doors of the prison and carried off their leader in triumph. A price was set upon his head,
but the offered reward availed nothing.

That Redmond and Lou Parris met at intervals is now known. That he told the girl that Johnson was his betrayer she herself told at a later day. Johnson was discarded. He began to circulate slanders
against the girl's character.

One day Johnson received a note from Lou Parris asking him to meet her that night. He kept the tryal, and then he plunged a knife into her heart. She was indicted for murder.

Her father, when she came on she was permitted to plead guilty to murder in the second degree. Her sentence was 15 years
in the penitentiary near Columbia.

Redmond Changed his name went to Spartanburg, and there obtained work.
On visiting days he was the first to be admitted to the prison, and no official suspected that the prisoner's "half brother"
as he was called, was Ralph Redmond.

Three years wore away. During this time influential friends of young Redmond
had secured the quashing of the indictment against him. The King's Daughters became interested in Lou Parris and secured her pardon. Lou Parris was at-

turn to the world. Four years ago the girl
entered the institution and remained there
three years.

BLACK EYES HANDED OUT

Chicago Glove Makers Have Taken a Determined Stand to Compel the Recognition of Their Union.

CHICAGO, May 25.—Girl strikers at the Eisenbraun Glove Co.'s plant tried the
"water cure" yesterday on one of their
number to prevent resumption of work.
They set her in a fountain and let the
water run down her back until she promised she would stay away from the factory
until the strike is settled.

Another girl got a black eye because she insisted on going to work. Her comrades
began by pinching her arms, but when she persisted in her demand to be let alone one of the striking girls gave the offender a "poke" in the eye. This was an effective argument and convinced the girl
who was assailed that it would be wise
not to compel the pickets to resort to brutal force.

The trouble was caused by the notice
sent out by the company to some of the
girls announcing an alteration in conditions. In the communication the company
stated that if the girls decided to abolish
the machine, rent of 50 cents a week, would give the girls all free, and that if they
only 1 cent a week instead of the former price of 14 cents.

Twenty-five girls responded to the letters prepared to return to work. They were met at Elston and Michigan, where they were told that the strike had not been declared off. They were then taken to the factory and were told that they were
not to work until the strike was settled.

A girl, said to be Dora Jackson,
declared she was going into the plant
and was caught by the pickets and half
carried, half dragged to the water-trough or fountain. She was held in the trough with the water trickling down her
back until she promised to stay away from
the factory.

It showed her that the water cure
was not a joke.

LOS ANGELES WON.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The commissioners
of the Presbyterian general assembly decided today to hold the next general assembly at Los Angeles, Cal. There was a lively contest for the honor between Cleveland and Los Angeles, and a commissioner who refused to give his name, made the decision. A railroad corporation was considered in favor of the California city,
and it was decided by the moderator.

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCES

WHEAT MARKET CLOSED HEAVY SHORTS KEPT PRICES FIRM ATTEMPTING TO COVER.

OUTSIDE DEMANDS LIGHT

Effect of the Bullish Visible Supply Report Offset by Generally Favorable Crop and Weather Advices.

Early promises were ruthlessly broken in the wheat pit Monday, and what gave every indication of being a lively, bullish market all day, closed diametrically dull and weak.

With the exception of a little spurt when the July option reached 77 1/2, and a sudden demand by the shorts, the session was devoid of ordinary action.

At the opening July exhibited a firmer tone under bullish gossip concerning a 2,000,000 bu decrease in the visible supply. This kept the market up, and when the report was posted showing 2,945,000 bu, the market fell, and the bearish reports were practically neutralized for the day.

These reports were especially encouraging as to the condition of grain. In the North-west where there has been enough rain generally fair weather, with a shower here and there, prevailed. In Kansas, Missouri and Illinois, where a downpour was hoped for, there were good rainfalls. In addition to this was encouraging reports of the growing movement of grain, and weak foreign dealing.

Corn was stronger under the visible decrease and a lively interest in the July option.

Broomhall called that July corn in Liverpool opened in sympathy with America, 44 1/2 at 5 1/2. Owing to the pressure of spot wheat on the July option declined by 1/2 point. In the afternoon it fell 1/2 point and closed 4 1/2. The market was lower, and then a sudden buying went back to 7 1/2 and then to 7 3/4 and 7 1/2 and closed dull at 7 1/2 bid.

There was but little trading in Sept. The option declined unchanged at 7 1/2 bid and 1/2. The visible supply report showed 30,625,000 bu of wheat in sight, against 30,220,000 bu last week, and 4,000,000 bu last year, a decrease of 2,485,000 bu.

A much better feeling existed in July corn shorts than in the wheat market. In the endeavor to cover, and some lively trading followed on a short range. July opened 4 1/2, and after a short run, it declined and fluctuated between that figure and 4 1/2, until the afternoon, when it rallied and went to 4 3/4, the day's highest figure. December picked up a little in trading and after an opening at 4 1/2, it gained 1/2 and closed 4 3/4.

The trading was light, the first sale being 4 1/2. It dropped to 4 1/2, but rallied to 4 3/4 and closed firm.

Receipts of oats at primary points today were 30,000 bu, as compared with 175,000 bu same date last year. Shipments, 49,897 bu, compared with 100,000 bu same date last year. Clearances, 3000 bu.

The visible corn supply is 4,297,000 bu, against 4,270,000 bu last week and 15,000,000 bu last year, a decrease of 10,703,000 bu.

Oats were dull and quiet, but being recorded for each July and September option, the former at 3 1/2 and the latter at 2 1/2.

FRENCH NOBILITY TO VISIT ST. LOUIS

COUNTS ROCHAMBEAU AND DE LAFAYETTE WILL COME JUNE 4.

QUESTS OF THE EXPOSITION

French World's Fair Representatives and Naval Officers Will Accompany Members of Mission.

Count and Countess Rochambeau and Countess de Lafayette, accompanied by M. Tyrrave, the French World's Fair commissioner, will visit St. Louis June 4, and will remain for two days following.

Secretary Walter B. Stevens of the World's Fair received a telegram Sunday from Thomas W. Crider, European commissioner of the Fair, stating that the members of the French mission, after several consultations, had agreed to visit St. Louis, arriving on the evening of June 4 and spending the 5th and 6th in the city.

The company, according to Mr. Crider's message, will comprise the two counts, Countess Rochambeau, Viscountess de Chambrun, Jean Guillemin, Robert de Billy, Jules Bouffay, M. Lefevre and a number of French naval officers.

The committee on ceremonies of which C. H. Spencer is chairman, meets Monday to consider the arrangements for receiving the guests and entertaining them during their stay.

NEGRO WAS SHOT ON AN OWL CAR

WHITE MAN FIRED THE SHOT AND THEN ESCAPED.

THREE MEN WERE ARRESTED

Victim Complained of Being Jostled on Olive Street Car and Quarrel Followed.

Dan Hussey, Charles Grogan and Joseph Brennan are prisoners at the Four Courts while the police are investigating the shooting of James Moore, colored, of 5888 Clemens avenue.

The shooting occurred on an Olive street car at 2:15 o'clock Monday morning, near Olive and Compton. Some one jostled the negro Moore at which he remonstrated. In the quarrel that followed some unidentified white man drew a revolver and fired one shot. It took effect in the negro's thigh. He was sent to the City Hospital. The police say that the man who fired the shot escaped.

THE FLOATING PUBLIC BATHS

HARBOR DEPARTMENT SURPLUS FUNDS MAY BE USED.

AWAITING WHYTE'S OPINION

Suggestion That One of the Settling Basins at Bissell's Point Be Used.

Harbor Commissioner Whyte is awaiting an opinion from City Counselor Bates on the legality of using the harbor department surplus for the building of floating public bath houses.

President Phillips of the Board of Public Improvements is supporting the plan, and says that the suggestion has been made to use temporarily one of the abandoned settling basins at Bissell's Point.

This suggestion has not been approved by the water department officials, who do not believe that the basins could be adapted for the purpose.

MURDERED AND MUTILATED

Patrick Crotty's Body Found Below East St. Louis.

ON THE BANK OF DEAD CREEK

TRACKS IN THE MUD TELL THE NUMBER OF MURDERERS.

Victim Evidently Assaulted in Rush City and Followed to the Creek—Corpses Bruised and Beaten.

Standing in the mud on a creek bank, two or three men beat out the brains and otherwise mutilated the body of Patrick Crotty, whom they had murdered for his money, not long before daylight Sunday morning.

The murder occurred about a mile below East St. Louis, Ill. The assault is believed to have started at Rush City, a negro settlement where Crotty spent the larger part of the night among the saloons.

A trail of blood leading to the point on Dead creek, where the body was discovered, gives rise to the theory that Crotty was struck on the head while in Rush City, half a mile away, and was followed to the creek by his assailants, who completed their work.

Crotty worked as a heater in the Tudor Iron works at East St. Louis. He was 26 years old and came to East St. Louis recently from Springfield, Ill., bringing his mother to his home.

Saturday afternoon Crotty received his pay. He gave $5 to his helper and then went to Rush City, where he became intoxicated. He was seen at that town as late as 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The police say that he and two other men were seen on the principal street together.

The corpse was not cold when discovered after daylight. Footprints in the mud on each side of the body, on the sloping bank of Dead creek, show that at least two men were engaged in the ghastly task of killing their victim and mutilating his remains.

The head was crushed, the right arm broken between the elbow, and there were other evidences that the body had received an unnecessary beating and kicking.

Man Arrested.

on Suspicion.

Michael Brazile, a rolling mill employee, was arrested Monday morning on suspicion and will be held at least until the conclusion of the coroner's jury.

The inquest was begun Monday forenoon at the undertaking rooms of J. J. Brichler. Brazile was one of the witnesses. He said that he saw Crotty on Fry's saloon in Tudorville at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night, and at first said that he did not see him later. He then stated that he was closely questioned by the police and that he had seen Crotty at about 1:30 passing the saloon of John Robinson and going in the direction of where the body was found. He is the last man known to have seen Crotty alive.

He testified that Tom Belleville and Walter were with him at Robinson's saloon when Crotty passed. Belleville is under arrest charged with carrying a dangerous weapon. Edmund testified that he saw Crotty with a man he did not know at the side door of Robinson's saloon at 11:30.

Robinson is the marshal of Tudorville. He testified that he was awakened at 6 o'clock Sunday morning by a man who told him of the finding of the body, and he notified the authorities.

Michael Byrne, Crotty's brother-in-law, said Crotty did not have more than a few dollars on him.

The inquest, which was conducted by Deputy Coroner Brichler, was adjourned at 2 o'clock to get more witnesses.
